Who will go with Ga - llant Ar - cher Who will go with Sweet Will's men?
 He's the flo - wer of the Bre - gas And the dar - ling of the fen See the white rose in his bo - nnet See his ba - nner prou - dly sway His good sword he now has drawn it And has flung the sheath a - way.

Chorus:

Who will go with gallant Archer?
 Who will go with Sweet Will's men?
 He's the flower of the Bregas
 And the darling of the fen
 See the white rose in his bonnet
 See his banner proudly sway
 His good sword he now has drawn it
 And has flung the sheath away

3. Every faithful Marcher followed
 Strong as steady as the tide
 Returned into the field of battle
 Stoutly marching side by side
 Ever watchful, ever onward
 Generals, Captains, brave Yeomen,
 Scoured the dark and faced the danger
 To bring the Cullachs home again!

1. Fighting in the woods of Chalcis
 Orcs and monsters all were killed
 Highborn, Freeborn all to safety
 Marchers last to leave the field
 A sudden rush from Orcish forces
 Loud and clear retreat did sound
 As the portal closed behind us
 Three bold men lay on the ground

Chorus

4. Of the three that day were rescued
 Two were wounded mighty sore
 And one did give his life for Empire
 Birchland did rise up no more
 So Marchers always stand together
 To make a loss of one from three
 Join me now in praise and song
 For William Archer's bravery!

Chorus

2. Up then spoke Courageous Archer
 "Marchers we have all to do
 Jack can open up the portal
 But we must bravely step back through
 If they live we'll bring them back
 And celebrate our Loyalty
 And if they're dead we'll bring them home
 To lay beneath an apple tree."

Chorus

Chorus

(To the tune of "The Athol Gathering")
